Kubernetes Birthday and Reflection

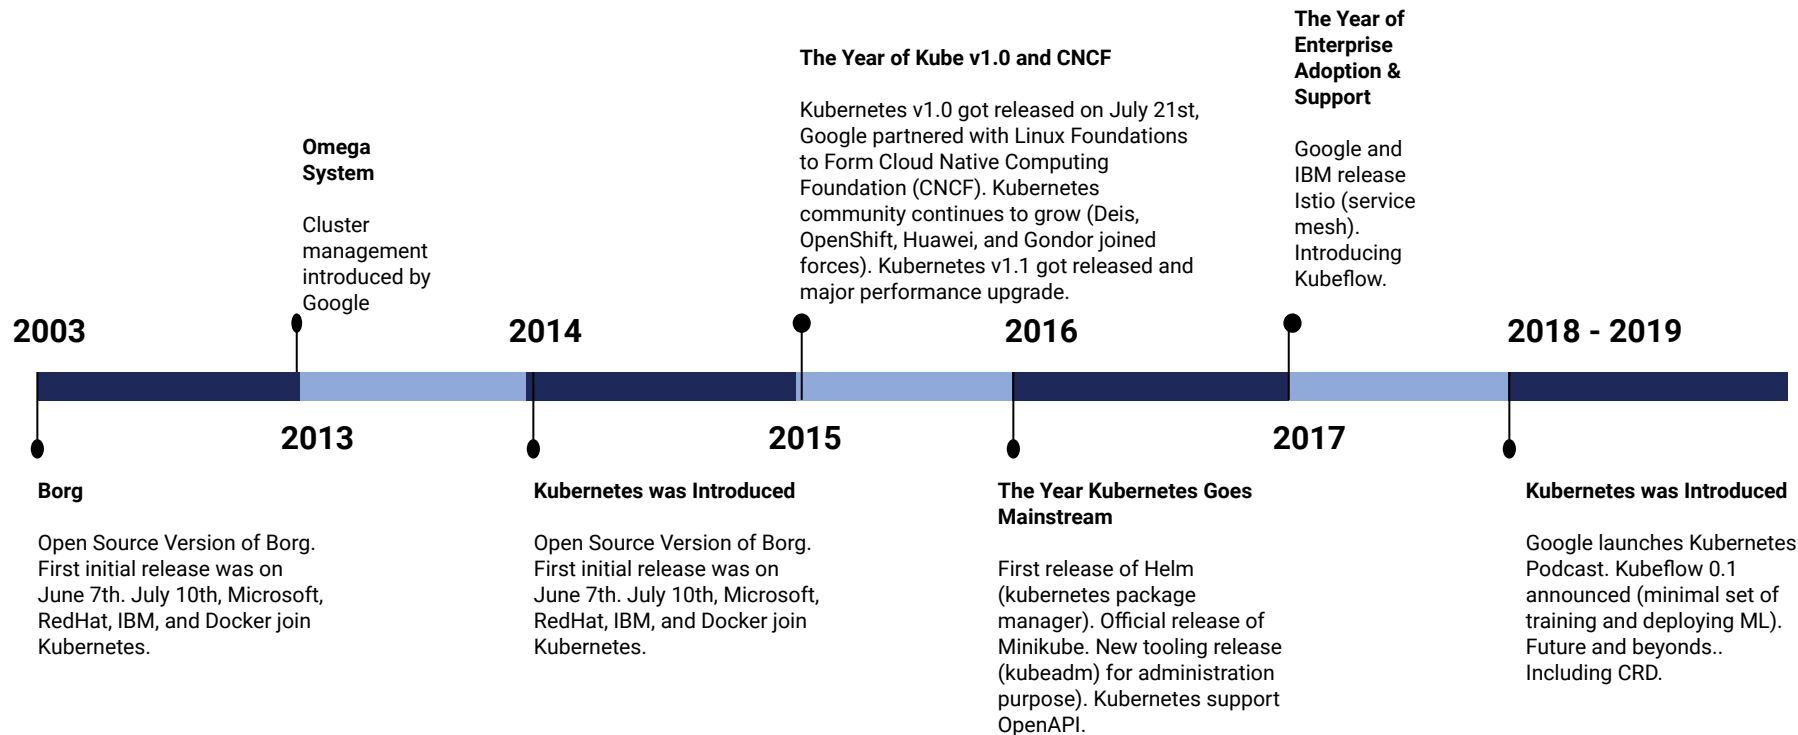

They say that success has a thousand parents and failure is an orphan, but in the case of Kubernetes the truth is that its success is due to its thousands of parents.

5 years in, it's worth reflecting on the things that Kubernetes has achieved. It is one of the largest open source project. Yet, it has managed to sustain a fast pace of development across a team of thousands of distributed engineers working from different companies.

Kubernetes Birthday and Reflection (Con't)

The story of Kubernetes isn't just a story of community, it is also a story of technology. As Kubernetes turns five, we naturally look to the future to see how it continues to grow and flourish. In the celebration of everything that has been achieved, it must also be noted that there is always room for improvement.
